ONCE IS ENOUGH TO SEE

Gustave Dore's portrait of Dante is worth seeing—once. But once is enough. Some such look you notice on the faces of those who have suffered, and still suffer, much physical pain; people subject to rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, periodic headache, lumbago, or pain from some old lesion. This pain-habit puts its marks on them, as the custom of handling ropes crooks a sailor's fingers; or as too much riding of a bicycle stamps a worried expression on certain faces. No wonder people said of the Italian poet as he passed along, "There goes

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHS."

The complaints above named all yield to the action of Benson's Porous Plasters, and quickly too. Not only those, but colds and coughs, kidney and liver affections, all congestions and muscular strains, diseases of the chest, asthma and all ailments which are open to external treatment. It is frequently said that Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master. It cures when others are not even able to relieve. For thirty years the leading external remedy. The old-style plasters, as well as salves, liniments, oils, etc., have little or no efficacy as compared with it. Use it. Trust it. Keep it in the house. Ask for Benson's Plaster; take no other. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

THE CONFISCATED HAMS

A Story of the Close of the Civil War.

BY ELLA LOWERY MOSELY.

"The Yankees will be here in the morning!"

That was the news that threw the little town into a fever that bright afternoon. The war was over and the Federal armies were moving homeward. Truly, we were glad to see them going, but we wished them to leave behind them the little live stock and other portable property which the bloody conflict had left us. Else how could we begin this new life?

So there was excitement in the town, and people were hiding their valuables and driving their cattle to the swamp.

The little store down on the square was deserted early in the evening, for those who had no property to demand their attention had also gone home to talk over the news with the folks there, having already exhausted the subject down town. This store, together with the building, one room of which it occupied, was owned by the Rarely brothers, commonly called Jack and Jim. They sat just now in splint bottom chairs tilted back against the counter, their worn gray caps pulled over their eyes to keep out the light.

Ten months before this Jack Rarely, rendered unable for further service in the army by wounds and exposure, had come home to stay. He found the store, which a lad of seventeen had been running, in a most deplorable condition as to its stock. Weak, thin faced, full of aches and pains and with a hunger almost impossible to appease, he took charge of it. There was so little in it and customers were so scarce he was the same worn, gaunt figure, with hollow, yearning eyes now that he was then.

A few weeks before this Jim had been sent home on a furlough to gain strength enough, if he could, to go back. The surrender has relieved him of that necessity. He looked like his brother, save that his figure was naturally heavier.

They had been sitting very quietly. They were in that state when silence is more restful than talking. They were not disturbed by the expected arrival of the Yankees. A little rusty tinware, a few dingy discolored calicoes, some wormy meal and rank meat—nobody wanted that. I say they were not disturbed, but Jack at least had been doing some hard thinking.

Now the room over them had been the warehouse in that district for the Confederacy. There was a goodly store of hams in it belonging, of course, as confiscated property to the Federal government. That was the subject of Jack's thoughts, for presently he said to Jim, who was engaged in whittling a stick:

"What's to hinder us takin' a couple of these hams home?" He spoke cautiously, as though in doubt as to the reception his suggestion would receive.

Jim stopped his whittling and looked up. He was very slow in answering. He had studied for the ministry once and was given to weighing matters of an ethical nature seriously.

"I don't know," he answered at length, and then, the tone belying the words, "We haven't a right, have we?"

"Why," said Jack, "we've never had any rent for the room they're in. Seems like we ought to have somethin'."

"Yes," replied Jim. "But the one who put the hams there can't pay now, and the ones who are goin' to take 'em away haven't any call to."

"Ma would like a bit of that ham," Jack continued musingly. "She said this mornin' that side meat hadn't any taste. She ain't had much appetite here of late."

Jim's expression changed. A vision of his mother's tired yet patient face, which had grown so much more tired and more patient during the months when her boys were in battle, and she, with her aged husband, had struggled along as best they could—her face came before him and brought tears to his eyes.

"Jack," he said softly, "maybe she could eat some, and as we haven't had any rent I reckon we might carry a few home—just two or three."

It was late that night and all the town was in bed. For, although they had satisfactorily settled the matter with their conscience, it seemed best to wait until no one was stirring before carrying out their purpose. Each selected a ham and carried it home. On reaching the house they slipped noiselessly into the kitchen and hung up their precious burdens, then paused to gaze upon so unnatural a spectacle. The moon sent a broad flood of light through the open door and showed the hams plainly. They were large and round and had a most savory odor. It seemed as though even a raw piece would be delicious.

"Jim," said Jack, sniffing them hungrily, "won't some of that taste good in the mornin'?"

"Ma will enjoy it," said the other simply.

In a few minutes they had retired to their rooms, very softly, too, so as not to disturb the old folks.

Jack did not go to sleep as soon as he got in bed, though that was his habit. He kept seeing those hams. As the excitement wore off they did not look so fair as they had. His conscience, rendered acute by early training and unblunted scarcely even by the rough soldier's life, began to prick up. He defended himself with the arguments presented to his brother already, but the little stabs were all the deeper. He tossed and turned, and the moon, looking in through the window, smiled in his sickly face derisively. He shut his eyes, and to shut out conscience began repeating some verses of his childhood, but they were, "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

And Conscience broke in with "Then, why steal?"

The perspiration broke out on his face.

"I have not stolen," he said defiantly.

"You have," answered Conscience.

"But it is for ma I did it," he pleaded submissively.

"Do you think," said Conscience, "she would eat what has passed through a thief's hands?"

He could stand it no longer. He got up and silently opened the door, hoping to breathe easier. Just as he had taken a deep inhalation a sudden noise made him start, and he shivered in the cool night air. It was only his brother opening his door, which also looked out on the little back porch. He stood there, a weird, gaunt, white figure, the moonlight playing on his cheeks, sunken too early; in the hollows about a young throat where the nightdress was open, his eyes gleaming uncannily from their deep sockets.

"Jack," he whispered, "is that you?"

"Yes, Jim."

Their bare feet touched the porch floor simultaneously as they drew nearer each other.

"Jack, I don't feel right about those hams."

"Neither do I," was the answer. They peered into each other's faces in a conscious, shamefaced way. Each was confessing a sin.

"Jack," said Jim again, "let's take 'em back."

"Right now," said his brother decisively.

It had been a long day; it was late when they came home; it was now going on toward morning. They were weary and full of rheumatic pains gathered from hundreds of nights on the bare earth. All this was so, but they dressed themselves and carried back those confiscated hams.—Washington Post.

Not What They Expected.

Seated in a third class carriage of a southbound express were eight people. Seven of the number were quietly reading, when suddenly the eighth broke into deep and blood curdling groans. Horror stricken, the rest gazed at him for a moment, and then one of them, with great presence of mind, produced a brandy flask and, pouring out a copious draught, forced it on the sufferer. It was quickly disposed of.

"How do you feel now?" inquired one of the company.

"Prime!" was the reply.

"What was the matter with you?" was the next query.

"Matter with me? Nothing!" was the indignant retort.

"What in the name of thunder did you groan like that for, then?" cried the owner of the brandy.

"Groan, sir—groan!" said the astonished man. "Why, I was singing!"—London Answers.

French Fruits and Vegetables.

The French larder was much better furnished than the English in mediæval times, but some things were considered dainties which are now discarded. Our modern confectioners offer us candied violets, but the French of the fourteenth century used to cook violet leaves like spinach or serve them as salad. They also used to eat the green ears of wheat boiled with melted butter, just as in this country we eat the unripe ears of Indian corn. The young burgeons of the grapevine boiled and dressed with a piquant sauce were a favorite vegetable entremet on a French mediæval table. In general, however, it must be said that even in the most civilized parts of the continent of Europe 500 years ago people had fewer flowers, fruits and vegetables than we have now.

The Murderer and Captain Byrnes.

McGloin was a young ruffian who had murdered a saloon keeper at a midnight raid on his place. He was the fellow who the night before he was hanged invited the chief of detectives to "come over to the wake. They'll have a devil of a time." For six months Byrnes had tried everything to bring the crime home to him, but in vain. At last he sent out and had McGloin and his two "pals" arrested, but so that none of them knew of the plight of the others. McGloin was taken to Mulberry street, and orders were given to bring the others in at a certain hour fifteen or twenty minutes apart.

Byrnes put McGloin at the window in his office while he questioned him. Nothing could be got out of him. As he sat there a door was banged below. Looking out, he saw one of his friends led across the yard in charge of policemen. Byrnes, watching him narrowly, saw his cheek blanch, but still his nerve held. Fifteen minutes passed; another door banged. The murderer, looking out, saw his other pal led in a prisoner. He looked at Byrnes. The chief nodded.

"Squealed, both."

It was a lie, and it cost the man his life. "The jig is up, then," he said and told the story that brought him to the gallows.—Jacob Riis in Outlook.

A Wonderful Memory.

The following anecdote of Mozart shows that he must have been a born musician:

When fourteen years old, he heard in Rome the "Miserere" of Allegri, and knowing that it was forbidden to take or give a copy of this famous piece, he paid such attention to the music that when he reached home he noted down the entire piece. He was enabled a few days afterward to check the copy, when he found that he had not made a single mistake. The next day he produced such a sensation in Rome by singing the "Miserere" at a concert that Pope Clement XIV. requested that he should be presented to him. Thus by his wonderful memory he was enabled to begin with success his musical career.

His Million.

An Irishman who had but recently arrived in this country applied to a Scotchman for a job. The Scotchman determined to give Pat a trial—also a little advice. "It will be your own fault if you don't get ahead in this country, Pat," said the Scotchman. "Twenty years ago I landed in New York with but one shirt to my back, but since then by my own exertions I have managed to accumulate a million."

"Faith, an' Oi'd loike to be afther knowin' phwat any man wants with a million shirts!" exclaimed Pat. "He can't wear more than wan at a toime, begorra!"—Exchange.

Not In the Secondhand Business.

As Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the great wit, was entering court one day carrying his books and briefs in a green bag, according to the custom of the time, some of his brother barristers, thinking to play a joke on him, urged some boys to ask him if he had old clothes for sale in his green bag. "Oh, no!" instantly replied Sheridan. "They are all new suits."

The powder puff may help to hide the ravages of time but it avails little to hide the ravages of disease. When the face is disfigured by eruptions, the treatment must go below the surface to the blood, which is corrupt and impure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures disfiguring eruptions which are caused by impure blood. It cures scrofulous sores, erysipelas, boils, pimples, eczema, salt-rheum and other eruptive diseases which impure blood breeds and feeds.

"I was troubled with eczema from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet," writes Mrs. Ella Quick, of Cass City, Tuscola Co., Mich. "Could not walk at times nor wear my shoes. Thought there was no help for me—at least the doctor said there was none. I went to see friends at Christmas time and there heard of the good that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery had done for them, and was advised to try it at once. For fear that I might neglect it my friend sent to the village and got a bottle and made me promise that I would take it. I had been getting worse all the time. I took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and ten vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and used 'All-Healing Salve,' which made a complete cure. It was slow, but sure. I was taking the medicine about eight months.

"I would say to all who read this; try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery before wasting time and money."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

THE California Northwestern Railway Company appeals to all living in the towns and valley of Sonoma who wish to take in summer boarders to send in their names and the number of guests they can accommodate. The request of the company, which appears in another column, is worthy of careful consideration. Those who are able to take guests during the summer can realize considerable profit for themselves and also confer a benefit on the entire community. Sonoma Valley has a great future as a summer rendezvous, and the railroad people, realizing this, are doing all in their power to advertise this section and bring money and people here during the outing season. Every one should appreciate their efforts and give them their heartiest co operation.

There is money to be made out of the summer trade both directly and indirectly, for people will learn to appreciate our natural resources to such an extent that in many cases they will invest their capital here. It thus behooves every man and woman in the valley to interest themselves in what the California Northwestern is trying to do. Let us make room for as many summer people as we can get. Send in your names to the railway company this month.

JUDGE DOUGHERTY, in handing down an opinion, the other day, in the case of J. W. Horn vs. E. H. Smith, says in substance that a written contract entered into by an owner of real estate on the one side and a real estate agent on the other, must be lived up to. In this case the owner had given the agent the exclusive right to sell, his commission to be $90 provided the sale took place during the life of the contract. The owner, in order to beat the agent out of his commission, negotiated the sale independent of him and refused to disgorge the $90. A suit followed in a Justice's Court in Petaluma, which decided against the agent, who appealed the case to the Superior Court. Judge Dougherty reverses the petty court in the following language: "Under the written agreement which is the foundation of this case, H. S. Smith, the defendant, agreed to pay the plaintiff ninety dollars in case the piece of land involved be sold during the life of the contract by Horn, herself or anybody else. It was sold during the duration of the contract by the owner, the defendant, without any assistance from the plaintiff, and under the agreement he is entitled to the enforcement of the strict terms of the contract. I think this court erred in holding otherwise at the trial and for that reason the motion for a new trial must be and is hereby granted.

THERE ie probably no more deadly pest known to fruit-growers than the scale which infests many of the finest orchards of California. Innumerable efforts have been made to rid the trees of their destroyers. but the success that has been attained has not always been noteworthy. Isaac M. Clark, a fruit-grower of Lompoc, California, has discovered a process which seems to be all that is claimed for it. The substances which are used in the process by which the trees are freed of scale comprise essentially any mineral oil, caustic alkali and water. The mineral oil is sprayed upon the trees by means of a pump. The oil-spraying is then followed by the caustic alkali solution, applied in the same manner. The oil is intended to kill and destroy the scale and insects that infest the trees—a result achieved in from three to eight minutes. The caustic alkali solution serves the purpose of neutralizing the oil after the desired end has been attained, for without such neutralization the oil would destroy the fibre and foliage of the tree. The oil and alkali, it is found, form a paste of a soapy consistency, which paste is a fertilizer eminently advantageous to the life and growth of the tree.

El Verano Brevities.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riser visited San Francisco Saturday.

Supervisor Blair Hart was in town on Friday of last week.

Misses Maggie and Mary Biggins of Sonoma visited friends here Monday.

L. McDonough, after spending the holidays in the metropolis, has returned to the El Verano Villa.

Sam Lewis, the San Francisco butcher, was in town Sunday looking up a location for a meat market.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lewis of Sacramento arrived here Sunday and spent several days on their ranch near this place.

Mons. J. Dutil, mine host of the French Cottage, will commence the erection of a large hotel in this place in a few days.

Mr. Thomas Walsh of Tuolumne county has been visiting his son in this place, who has been on the sick list the past week. Mr. Walsh returned home Sunday.

Mr. John Lounibos is planting a fine grove of shade trees in front of of the Bellevue Hotel. This improvement will add much to the appearance of the town.

Mike Mullen and George Weaver killed a mad dog in this place the other day. The owner of the animal paid the boys fifty cents for putting him out of the way and burying him.

The people of this peaceful burg were alarmed Saturday night by visions of a "hoss" thief in their midst. It came about in this way: A. W. Weaver reported that his fine stallion Redwood had been stolen from his barn. He vouchsafed the remark that he had examined the barn carefully and that it was impossible for the animal to have made its escape unaided. This alarmed the citizens, about twenty of whom, led by our local Constable, started out to capture the thief and recover the horse. Some were mounted and others on foot. In the meantime the excited owner of the nag rushed to the telegraph office to flash his loss over the wires, but the office was closed down for the night. Later on Redwood was discovered entangled in a barbed-wire fence a short distance east of town, and but slightly injured. The question that is now agitating the people of this town is how did the horse get out of the barn. They have arrived at the conclusion that he gained his liberty through an open window, and Mr. Weaver has been advised to sell the remarkable equine to a menagerie—that he is no good for anything else.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

REMARKABLE CURE OF CROUP

A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine my boy would not be on earth to-day.—Joel Demont, Inwood, Iowa. GRANDPA'S HEALTH.

An Important Factor in the Happiness of His Grandchildren.

There are families where Grandpa's visit is looked forward to with delight and expectancy. Grandpa's coming means fun and frolic and enchanting stories. But there are other families where grandpa's visit is the burden of the year. The children dread it because they know it will put a stop to their romping. The parents dread it because it will disorganize the household, every member of which must keep step with the slow shuffling tread of age, and subordinate duties and pleasures to the capricious whims of second childhood. The difference in these two old men is simply a difference of health. The one old man is hale and hearty, enjoys his food, sleeps soundly, and keeps his grip on public affairs. The other old man is weak and feeble, his appetite and digestion are poor, his sleep is unsound, he has no interest in life or affairs save as his personal comfort may be affected.

Healthy old age, whether in man or woman, is largely a question of sound stomach and pure, rich blood. To preserve this condition nature generally needs some assistance, in order to get rid of the accumulations of waste, effete and poisonous substances which tend to clog the body and impede the circulation. It is also needful to keep the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts in a healthy condition, in order to properly nourish the body.

HEALTH IN OLD AGE

can, therefore, best be enjoyed by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food upon which physical strength depends. It cleanses the blood of clogging and poisonous matter, and by increasing the activity of the blood-making glands, increases the supply of pure, rich blood, which is the final form of nutrition and the life of the whole physical man.

"I suffered for six years with constipation and indigestion, during which time I employed several physicians, but they could not reach my case," writes Mr. G. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Ark. "I felt that there was no help for me; could not retain food on my stomach; had vertigo and would fall helpless to the floor. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pellets,' and improved from the start. After taking twelve bottles of the 'Discovery' I was able to do light work, and have been improving ever since. I am now in good health for one of my age—60 years. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's medicines."

STRENGTH AND THE STOMACH.

No man can be strong when the stomach is "weak." The body, and every organ of it, depends upon the stomach for nutrition. This nutrition is supplied by food which must be properly digested before it can be assimilated. When the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, the food eaten is imperfectly digested, and there is a reduction of the nutrition necessary for the sustenance of the body. This loss of nutrition soon shows itself in general feebleness or in the "weakness" of one or more of the organs most affected. Thus it is that indigestion often results in disease of organs remote from the stomach, the liver, heart, kidneys, etc., becoming "weak." So, also, when the diseased stomach is cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" the diseases of other organs which were caused by the diseased stomach are also cured.

"I feel that I would be doing an injustice to you if I did not send you a statement of my case," writes Mrs. David W. Guice, of Hamburg, Franklin Co., Miss. "I had liver complaint and indigestion. Everything that I ate disagreed with me. I suffered all the time with swimming in my head; heart beat too fast; my feet and hands were cold all the time; did not sleep well at all; was able to go about very little. I commenced to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets,' in May, 1897, and by December I could begin to get about very well. Have been doing my work ever since, except washing. Feel better than I have for several years. I would recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all who are troubled as I was. I am now sixty-one years old, and I thank you most kindly for the happy relief and cure."

GOOD ADVICE.

If you feel weak and run down; if your stomach is disordered or diseased; if there is heart "trouble," liver "trouble," or kidney "trouble" if your blood is "thin" and sluggish, begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and you will begin to renew your youth and strength.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Some dealers, tempted by the little more profit paid by less meritorious medicines, will attempt to sell a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," claiming it to be "just as good." The very claim makes substitution suspicious. A medicine as good as the "Discovery" would sell on its own merits and be asked for by the customer, not pushed off on him.

I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Pendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. Sold by F. Duhring. *

Ran Down in the Dark.

One dark night last week while Mrs. Carl Walliser and Miss Zarifa Howe were returning from a visit to Napa in a light buggy they were ran down by an unknown man who was driving a spirited team and had a narrow escape from being thrown from their buggy. A shaft was broken and their rig otherwise damaged by the force of the collision. The ladies spliced the broken shaft with a piece of rope and made their way home without further incident. The reckless driver who was responsible for the collision rode off into the darkness and is unknown.

JOAQUIN HANSEN DIES FROM HIS INJURIES.

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Railway Company and its Employees.

Joaquin Hansen, the half-breed Indian, who was struck by a southbound passenger train of the California Northwestern railway on Friday afternoon of last week, died the following morning between nine and ten o'clock.

Coroner Pierce held an inquest on the remains Saturday night and the verdict of the jury, of which Robert A. Poppe was foreman, exonerated the railway company and its employees from all blame.

The testimony showed that Joaquin and Jo Cruz, another half-breed, left town that afternoon in an intoxicated condition. Upon reaching a point where the accident happened both lay down in a drunken stupor. Joaquin's head rested alongside the rails, and he was too stupified from the effects of liquor to realize his peril. Cruz was on the other side of the track but out of harm's way. Two dogs were also with the men.

As engineer Sam Lewis rounded the curve near Rea's crossing he observed Cruz on one side of the track, but did not see Joaquin, as he lay in a depression in the ground with one of the dogs alongside of him, which hid the man from view. The engineer blew the whistle and clanged the bell of his engine as a warning. This brought the dog lying alongside the track to his feet and as the animal bounded away engineer Lewis was horrified to see a man lying near the track with his head almost touching the rails. The air brakes were applied, but too late to prevent Joaquin from being struck by the engine.

Joaquin Hansen was a half-breed. He was born in this valley in the early fifties, his father being a Swede and his mother a full-blooded Indian woman. He was a well-known character and indulged in occasional sprees which which finally led to his undoing.

EL VERANO GRANGE.

A Public Installation and Banquet.

El Verana Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, held a public installation and banquet Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows Hall. Most of the Grangers had extended a cordial invitation to some friend and so a very pleasant assemblage met together to witness the installation ceremonies and partake of the sumptuous banquet prepared by the ladies of the Grange.

The following officers were installed for the ensuing term :

Master	Hon. Robt. Howe
Overseer	Jas. Tate
Steward	Ed Johannsen
Assistant Steward	J. Potter
Chaplain	E. Faithful
Lecturer	E. J. Dowdall
Treasurer	T. Skillman
Secretary	R. J. Dowdall
Lady Assistant Steward	Kate Murray
Pomona	E. O'Connor
Flora	Mary McGill
Ceres	Mrs. A. D. Graham
Trustee	R. J. Dowdall

Hon. Robt. Howe, having received the insignia of his office, made a pleasing speech in which he thanked the Grangers for the honor conferred upon him and promised to do his best to enhance the value and prestige of the organization in this valley.

E. Faithful, the Chaplain, proved to be something of a wit when he made his speech in acknowledgment of his appreciation.

The other officers were inclined to be excused from oratorical effort and so after the regular form of installation was over, all repaired to the banquet room where a bounteous feast had been prepared. This pleasing feature over there were games and music in the main hall. The Latour brothers furnished excellent music and the games conducted by Mrs. Ed. Johannsen proved both interesting and amusing.

So well entertained were the guests that they lingered till midnight. All are looking forward with pleasure to the next affair to be given by the hospitable members of El Verano Grange.

DEATH OF SENATOR HILL'S WIDOW.

Passes Away at Her Home in San Francisco.

Mrs. Annie E. Hill, widow of the late Senator Wm. McPherson Hill and mother of Robert P. and John Howard Hill and the late Lida Hill, died at her home on Sutter street, San Francisco, last Tuesday, after an illness lasting several months. The funeral, which was a private one, took place Thursday, the remains being laid to rest beside those of her husband, who died several years ago.

Senator and Mrs. Hill were pioneer residents of this valley. For years they lived on their magnificent ranch near Glen Ellen. Here, with their highly accomplished daughter Miss Lida, they were wont to entertain their friends in a hospitable and courtly manner.

About twelve years ago Senator and Mrs. Hill sold their seventeen-hundred acre farm to the State for $50,000, and it was merged into the California Home. They then removed to San Francisco to spend their declining years.

Mrs. Hill was a highly cultivated, noble and charitable woman and her many acts of kindness will long live in the memory of those who were intimately acquainted with her.

With the passing of Mrs. Hill California loses one of its pioneer mothers who graced the State in its early days.

WILLED AN ESTATE.

Alfred Walliser Inherits a Farm and $4,000 Cash.

Mrs. O. Rilliet, who died last week in Oakland, was the grandmother of Alfred Walliser of this place. Among other bequests she left young Walliser a valuable ranch in Tulare county and $4,000 in cash. As the young man has not yet reached his majority a guardian will be appointed by the probate Court of Alameda county to manage his inheritance until he is legally qualified to care for it himself.

The Ruinart Stock Farm Attached.

An attachment was levied upon the Ruinart Stock Farm near, Glen Ellen, on Friday of last week. The papers were served by Sheriff Grace upon Mrs. Teresa Bell and "Mammy" Pleasant, the owners of the ranch, which formerly belonged to the late Captain Drummond, who spent and lost a fortune on the place. The attachment papers were issued from Judge Dunn's court, San Francisco, to recover $12,877, amount of judgment rendered in favor of Thomas Bell against his mother Mrs. Teresa Bell. There appears to be a "hoodoo" on this ranch, as everybody that has had anything to do with it the past twenty-five years has had a lawsuit or lost money on the place.

Steam Laundry.

The people of Sonoma will now have an opportunity to have their washing done by the steam process. The White Star Steam Laundry of Santa Rosa has established an agency in this place and all orders and bundles left at C. L. Johnson's drayage office will be attended to. Linen washed by the White Star Steam Laundry lasts three times as long as that which is subjected to the alkalies and beating processes of the Chinese washhouse. People should bear this in mind.

Glen Ellen Grange

The following officers of Glen Ellen Grange were installed on the 5th inst. to serve for the ensuing year by R. J. Dowdall, the retiring Master of El Verano Grange : Master, Thos. Johnson ; Overseer, C. A. Kennedy ; Lecturer, Robt. P. Hill ; Steward, C. H. W. Brunning ; Assistant Steward, James Cowan ; Chaplain, M. A. Zane ; Treasurer, J. M. Zane , Secretary, Chas. J. Poppe ; Gate Keeper, Thos. Smith ; Ceres, Mrs. C. A. Kennedy ; Pomona, Hilda Peterson ; Flora, Agnes Cowan ; Lady Assistant Steward, Nellie M. Bishop.

ADIEU — BENJAMIN WEED RESIGNS

The Popular and Talented High School Principal to Teach in Oakland.

Benj. Weed, for the past seven years principal of the Sonoma Valley Union High School, has resigned his position and will leave shortly for Oakland. Mr. Weed has been made instructor of History in the Oakland High School—a splendid position in one of the best secondary schools in the State. His leave-taking not only creates a vacancy in our High School but also on the County Board of Education, of which he is President.

Mr. Weed came to Sonoma in 1894, immediately after his graduation from the University of California. In college he was a bright student and as a senior, distinguished himself in many ways, particularly by writing a Greek play for his class day exercises. This was a splendid piece of literary work for a graduate student and was produced in a highly satisfactory manner in a pretty, rustic spot of the Berkeley hills, now known as Ben Weed's amphitheatre.

Shortly after commencement day Mr. Weed applied for the principalship of the Sonoma Valley Union High School and was the successful candidate for that position. Straightway he won the confidence and esteem of the pupils and patrons of the school and he has so ingratiated himself into the hearts of every one that it is indeed a sad task to record his departure.

Benj. Weed did much for the High School. He increased its prestige in State, county and valley, and succeeded in getting it upon the accredited list of the University of California. He has given us what graduates we have from that institution, and there is no one who has come in contact with him but has become broader, more appreciative and more cultured through his efforts. He has not only benefited the little circle immediately around him, but he has exerted his influence and made his presence felt in every home in the valley. Mr. Weed is a man of great personality. He inspires those about him with the highest motives and ideals, and because he has done this we feel his loss to be almost irreparable. He was so much more than a pedagogue that it will be hard to find any one who can fill the gap left by him in the social life of town and valley. Shakespeare and Sophocles were introduced by him into the community. Under his direction the pupils of the High School in '97 produced "The Merchant of Venice" and "Œdepus Rex." The beauty and art of the Greek play was further emphasized by the production of several pieces written by Mr. Weed himself after the best models. These original efforts schooled the entire population of the valley in the classics, for all were invited to be present at their production.

As a speaker, Mr. Weed will be greatly missed. In a thousand and one different ways Sonoma will feel his loss. It should indeed be a great satisfaction to take one's leave from a community amid the sincere regrets of so many good friends. Although Mr. Weed will reside in Oakland it is our good fortune to know that he has allied himself through marriage to the Gundlach family, staunch friends of old Sonoma, and he and his estimable wife will probably come often to pretty vine-clad Rhinefarm.

THE DANNEMORA MINES.

They Yield the Purest Iron Ore Produced in the World.

For centuries the Dannemora iron ore mines in Sweden have been to the ironmaker what Mecca is to the Mohammedan. It is there that the purest iron ore commercially known to man exists. The operating company is a close corporation and the ore is sold to no one outside of it—that is, the owners all possess iron or steel producing plants and obtain from these mines part of their supplies. They limit the production to 50,000 tons per annum and place it at a price which might seem prohibitory, but from its quality they can afford to so charge themselves.

The ore, which now comes from entirely underground operation, is magnetite, with an average of 50 per cent of metallic iron and from .0025 to .005 per cent phosphorus. It requires very little flux in the blast furnace, as the gauges is principally limestone, and the phosphorus is of that minute quantity which generally leads one to doubt the chemists' reputed results.

The mine has been operated for at least 400 years. At first it was owned by private parties, but later reverted to the government. In 1863 it was again taken by individuals, and has been successfully worked ever since. Up to 1829 the ore was disrupted by fire setting. In that year the use of gunpowder was introduced. As the present working depth is 846 feet, visiting the works seems like penetrating the bowels of the earth, and when we reflect on the great age of the mine and the primitive character of its first exploiting we could not help feeling that from some dark corner might come the spirit of the ancient Norseman to ask why we were intruding upon its original home.—Robert W. Hunt in Cassier's Magazine.

The Irishman on the Stand.

Lawyers with an appreciative sense of humor enjoy nothing so much as to get a quick witted, ready tongued son of the Emerald Isle on the stand to relieve the monotony of the legal technicalities of a case. A gentleman who has been collecting samples of Irish wit and repartee for some time relates the following anecdotes. Some of them are doubtless mellow with age, but in any case they will bear repetition:

A henpecked husband had his better half arrested for assaulting him. The plaintiff was on the stand.

"And now, Mr. O'Toole," said his counsel, "will you kindly tell the jury whether your wife was in the habit of striking you with impunity?"

"Wid what, sor?"

"With impunity."

"She wuz, sor, now an' then, but she ginerally used th' potaty masher."

A witness testifying in a murder case was asked to describe to the jury the exact location of a flight of stairs.

"Explain to the jury," said the prosecuting attorney, "exactly how the steps run."

"Shure, sor, if ye shtand at th' bottom they run up, an' if ye shtand at th' top they run down."

In a suit brought by an installment house to obtain payment for a suit of furniture a witness was asked if he knew what "quartered oak" meant. Here is his definition:

"It manes thot it's thra-quarters poine."—Baltimore Sun.

Japs as They Meet.

Nothing is more amusing than to watch two acquaintances saluting in the streets of a Japanese town. As they come in sight of each other they slacken their pace and approach with downcast eyes and averted faces, as if neither was worthy of beholding the other, then they bow low so as to bring the face, still kept averted, on a level with the knees, on which the palms of the hands are pressed.

A succession of hissing sounds is next made by drawing in the breath between the closed teeth, interspersed with a series of complimentary phrases uttered with great volubility in a sort of undertoned falsetto, each trying to outdo his friend in the rapidity and extravagance of his language, while the palms are diligently rubbed against each other.—Penny Magazine.

The Tadpole.

Of course most people know that frogs and toads are evolved from tadpoles, but there are some very strange things about these batrachians that possibly you don't know. Because this changeling is so well known to nearly everybody it may be dismissed by saying that it is born with gills and lives entirely under water until it reaches the transformation period; then lungs appear in place of the gills, the tail drops off, legs sprout out and an animal fitted to live on land is the result.

A Business Tonic.

Advertising is not a cure all for business ills, but a pharmacopia of business tonics. All depends upon the prescribing. Magazine space is good for certain business diseases that will never yield to billboards, while the newspaper is the quinine for business chills that are beyond the power of dodgers. Every remedy in the list has its uses, and the whole result of treatment depends upon the doctor.—Printers' Ink.

Arriving at a Total.

Tax Collector—How much is your husband worth?

Mrs. Wise—About a million.

Tax Collector—Are you sure?

Mrs. Wise—Oh, yes. You see, the jury awarded him $2,000 for the loss of a finger. I think in proportion the rest of him would be worth about 500 times as much.—Chicago News.

Losing No Chances.

Genial Doctor (after laughing heartily at a joke of his patient)—Ha! ha! ha! There's not much the matter with you, though I do believe that if you were on your deathbed you'd make a joke.

Irrepressible Patient—Why, of course I should. It would be my last chance.—Punch.

Gold In California.

The Society of California Pioneers determined after careful investigation that Jan. 28, 1848, was the exact date of the discovery of gold in California by James W. Marshall. The gold was found in the rocky bed of the tail race of the Sutter sawmill at Coloma, on the south fork of the American river.

A Good Cough Medicine.

From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by F. Duhring.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

COUGHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN.

Recommendation of a Well Known Chicago Physician.

I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs, with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. I am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial afflictions. It is non-narcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D., Chicago, Ill. This remedy is for sale by F. Duhring.

The Camphor Tree.

The camphor tree (Cinnamomum camphora) is an evergreen, a member of the laurel family, belonging to the same genus as the tree whose bark furnishes the spice called cinnamon, and is related to the bay and to the sassafras of the United States. Of symmetrical proportions, it is one of the noblest objects in the forests of eastern subtropical Asia. In its native habitat it attains gigantic dimensions, notably in girth of trunk, some specimens measuring 10 to 15 feet in diameter. It is said they have been known to reach as much as 20 feet, and they may be 60 to over 100 feet high, and live to a great age.

As a rule, they rise 20 or 30 feet without limbs and then branch out in all directions, becoming a mass of splendid and luxuriant foliage. Their leaves, broadly lanceolate in form, are of a light green color, smooth and shining above and whitish or glaucous on the undersurface. Small white or greenish white flowers are borne from February to April and by October ripen into berrylike, one seeded fruits about three-eighths of an inch in diameter.—Good Words.

The Inquisitive Antelope.

An antelope is as curious as a woman. If the hunter will lie down in the grass and wave a red handkerchief, a band of antelope will keep circling around until within reasonable distance for a safe shot. After completing a circle the antelope halt suddenly and bring down one fore foot with a vigorous stamp on the ground, and at the same instant they make a sort of snort that sounds like a half whistle. That is the propitious moment for peppering them with rifle balls.

I learned this trick when a frontiersman came along and found me crawling for miles on the level prairie endeavoring to get a shot at one of the timid creatures. The man asked me if I thought I could get him. I answered: "Get him! I've got to get him. I'm out of meat." He then posted me about lying still and flirting with the handkerchief, and I found they liked that better than chasing, and I made an entry right there that an antelope possessed some of the characteristics of a woman.—Exchange.

Masquerading In the Past.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Venice set the fashion in all matters of amusement and was a sort of combination of our Monte Carlo and Paris. Throughout the eighteenth century the Venetians were seized with a perfect mania for masquerading and gambling. Paris and London followed suit, and the two most popular amusements, both public and private, were masquerades and gambling saloons. People not only wore their masks or visors at balls, but in the Mall and the parks and the theaters. At length matters got to such a pass that when a police raid was made on a certain low dancing place in Soho and an order was given for every one to unmask what was the amazement of the police to find that at least a third of the company consisted of ladies and gentlemen of the highest aristocracy, some of whom had even brought their daughters.—Saturday Review.

Cooking a Mackerel.

Many a dainty nose with beauty and fortune behind it has been airily elevated at the mention of plain, old fashioned salt mackerel, but never at the salt mackerel as cooked by the famous John Chamberlin of Washington. His testimony runs to this effect:

"Take one or more mackerel and soak about 48 hours, changing the water once. Then put them in a pan large enough to hold them, cover them with cream or the nearest you can get to it, put in oven and cook until cream is brown. This beats any mackerel cooking on earth."—New York Herald.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
